My genealogical trail was previously blazed by my father, Jeremy Edward Butler, and my great aunt, Elizabeth Wells Shoemaker. Aunt Elizabeth compiled a detailed genealogy of the Wells family in 1976 and must have distributed bound copies to her relatives as I found one in my mother's estate. My idea of publishing a bound copy of my own genealogical research was inspired by hers.

My greatest source for genealogical data was Ancestry.com, which has a remarkable collection of censuses, passport applications, boat passenger lists, military records, wills, and thousands of entries that have been contributed by amateur genealogists. What amazes me the most about these records, many of which were handwritten, is how well they had been converted into searchable text via OCR (optical character recognition). I am constantly amazed at the data that can be pulled out of those records. This is what the digital revolution is all about.

Two other masters of OCR also greatly aided my work: Google Books and archive.org. Published genealogies dating before the 1920s are in the public domain and Google and archive.org have scanned and OCR'd a phenomenal number of them. You'll find public-domain genealogies cited throughout the ahnentafel reports.

This book was laid out with Adobe InDesign CC 2014.

Intro-Duction

I can't say I ever had much interest in genealogy.

I imagined it as a dry compilation of birth-marriage-death dates. And I cringed at the presumed sense of privilege that people descended from famous persons feel they are owed. Tracking your lineage back to the Civil War or the Revolutionary War or the Mayflower's voyage or some 14th-century baron seemed like the height of hubris.

But then I got intrigued by my ancestors' stories—like the one about my grandfather going to Peking, as it was called, in 1912 with the YMCA to promote physical health and challenging Chinese champions to wrestling matches; or tales of my 8th-great grandmother who was a Native American leader in the 17th century who married a Dutch man (they called her the Pocahontas of Long Island); or my 10th-great grandfather who, during the Mayflower trip, was swept overboard into the icy Atlantic, but managed to grab a piece of the ship and was hauled back on board; or the legend, for crying out loud, about my fifth cousin five times removed who was one James Butler Hickok—better known to American history as Wild Bill Hickok, murdered while holding the still-notorious “dead man's” poker hand of aces over eights.

Such colorful, varied, poignant, occasionally astonishing stories are what drew me to genealogical research. Although the vast majority of my research has been online and digital, I wanted a more permanent record, which resulted in this book.

I am neither a professional genealogist nor a professional book designer. The genealogical data herein is as accurate as I could make it, but there are bound to be errors and omissions. When the reader finds errata, I hope he or she will contact me (see below) so that I may correct the online version of this research, which may be found at <http://tiny.cc/gy6spx>. Similarly, this book assembles materials from a variety of sources in many different formats. I have done my best to massage them into a useful form, but I have not always succeeded.

WASP Mosaic

A Poem by Lucy Shackleford Mize

They say when he smiles, he is my son
And when she lifts one eyebrow in derision,
She resembles no one more than her grandmother.
But where does that sharp nose come from?
Searching history, we are saved from an incurable ennui and pabulum blandness, if not blondness, by a leavening of other scratched on brittle paper.
Our 9th-great grandmother, Catoneras, an Indian sunksqua who consorted with a Dutchman, Cornelis Jansen Van Texel;
the record leaves open whether the sex was freely given.
One Mayflower was a rascal, fighting the first duels of the New World
While the other stiffened in the pews and gave rise to the endless refrain
Of Bradford, Douglass, Wells and White, resembling in its litany a padded white shoe law firm.
There were lesbians without the label, wearing neckties and so magnificent in a navy serge panted suit, gazing down the seeing eye of the covered camera seeking a passport for freedom.
A Tinker's heart, a breach of promise, weddings hurried and a swallow of bleach,
Bones in New York's Marble Mausoleum, they hadn't learned the lesson
A woman's name is only in the paper at birth, marriage and death.

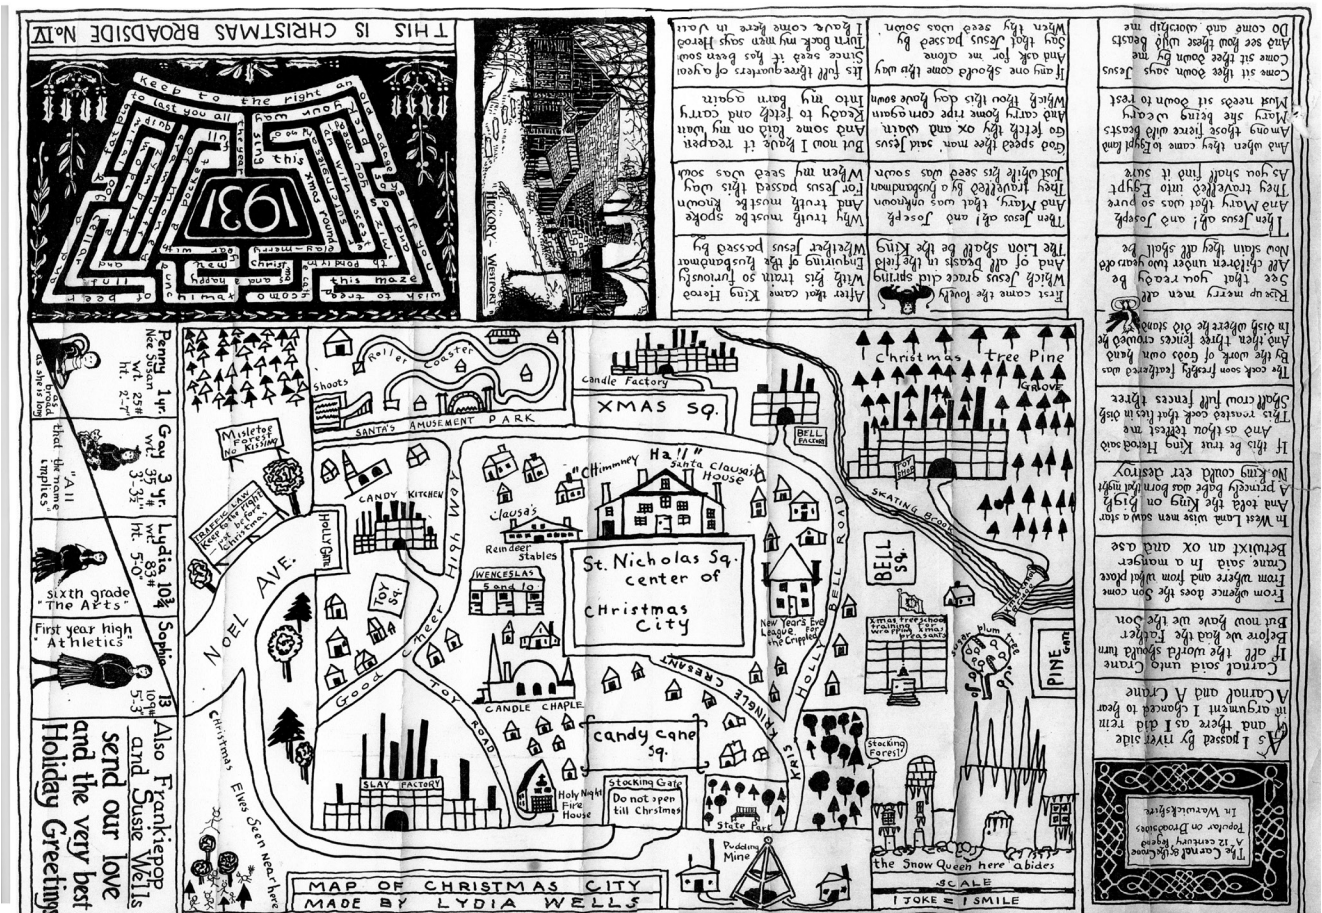

Family Stories

In the spring of 2014, I got a bit more serious about genealogy and began digging into historical records. What interested me most was the stories of my ancestors' lives—the narratives behind dry birth/marriage/death data. I began posting stories to Facebook and writing them in emails to my family—in addition to installing some online genealogical software (publicly available at www.jeremygb.com/tng), creating a photo gallery, and building a tree on Ancestry.com (look for jbutler1432, if you have an account there).

The Webpage is just a simple way to assemble those stories in one online location, for the benefit of family, friends and the idly curious. However, I also wanted a more permanent, printed version of the stories. Hence, this book. I refer you to the Website for larger, color versions of the illustrations: jeremygb.com/familystories.

The stories are not in chronological order, but are presented as they happen to come up. No stories of living persons are included and no genealogical information about them is included.

1931 Christmas Broadside

Each year, the F.C. and Sophie Wells family designed their own Christmas "broadside" with news of the past year. 1931's broadside included a "Map of Christmas City" by Lydia Wells, age 10.

Sophie White poem to Clara Downs, 1948, Westport, CT

Sophie White Wells composed this poem for her mother-in-law, Clara Downs Wells (1858-1955). The Oak Park referred to is a Chicago suburb and Uncle Walter is Clara's brother, Walter B. Downs. "Aunt Etta" is Henrietta Downs.

To Mother with dearest love from Sue

Sept. 6, 1948

ONCE UPON A TIME

At Westport Conn.

Once upon a time I married a Wells
And this little poem tells
Some of the high spots that I remember over the years
Only the happy ones--never the tears
But things that I recall
Guaranteed not to make anyone bawl.

So here goes----Once upon a time we had a baby
A really remarkable child---maybe -
And we brought her out to New Jersey
Her new grandparents for to see.
We came for a weekend and stayed six weeks
A flu epidemic was hitting high peaks.
Then came Armistice Day with its hullabaloo
Lizzie, Bibbie and I had to celebrate too.
We dashed off to Newark---I forgot I was a cow
We couldn't get back for hours there was such a row
Our poor baby was starving ---Nannie tried to appease her
But she howled and she howled, the poor little geezer,
Papw-paw walked her up and down for miles and miles
When I finally got home I was not greeted with smiles!

Once Upon a Time
Sally was demonstrating how to do the "human rocker"
Aunts Etta and Augusta were simply fascinated Gussus ran upstairs, said "I bet I can do it too"
Just let me get my corsets off"
Etta said "Gussus, that will do."

Once Upon a Time
I had a wonderful visit in Oak Park
For a whole week life was just a lark.
Uncle Walter -darling Uncle Walter- came and told us funny stories Especially one about the funeral parlor where he went to pay respects to an aged friend
And found himself instead gazing at a beautiful young lady.

Once Upon a Time
We had some wonderful Thanksgiving feasts
At 179, where I'm afraid we ate like beasts.
We had a specially good one in 1946
Where there were lots of college girls, but they were in a fix
Because all the college boys sat at Nan's feet
Listening to stories of bygone days--a rare treat.
As so often happens, Nan was the belle of the ball
And the young and giddy gals had no chance at all.

Once Upon a Time
We had some elegant birthdays for Mother
With ice cream from Marker's--just couldn't have any other.
In 1933 she was a gay young seventy-five
And we were all here--old Hickory was quite a beehive.
C.C. and Corneil got married--they had some fancy punch--
Aunt Etta's snappy velvet beret almost slipped into her lunch!
Everyone was quite giddy and gay
It turned out to be one more red-letter day.
Then in 1946 Nan was a gay young eighty-eight
And once more quite a batch of us were here, though some had another date.
The boys decided to cut down the mulberry tree
The girls watched from the window--a fine row of fannies all would agree!

F. C. Wells Senior's Office Buildings in 1902 and 1906

I found a listing for Dr. FCW Sr in a 1902 Chicago city directory: room 908 Chamber of Commerce bldg, corner of LaSalle and Washington (first image above).

And he's listed as being "of Equitable Ins. Co." He moved to Bloomfield, NJ, shortly after this, in 1903, but a 1904 Chicago city directory mistakenly lists him there. I checked that Chicago corner using Google Maps and it is not the same building today (2014)—although it does not look like a new building.

The second image, from 1906, is the Equitable Building in New York, where he worked until a catastrophic fire destroyed it on January 9, 1912.

The Ancestral Home on the Market

F. C. Wells, Sr. and Clara Downs Wells moved into 179 Belleville Ave., Bloomfield, NJ, in December 1902 or January 1903. Wellses would live there until 1980. It felt odd, therefore to see it on the market in the 2010s. It eventually sold for $175,000 on May 6, 2013.

Evidently, the Wellses were not the first folks to live in this house.

By looking at the 1900 Census, I found that the Allen family was living there at that time and I think we can reasonably assume they were three years later.

Incidentally, Andrew and Mary Allen shared the house with two children under the age of two, Andrew's mother (age 61) and father (age 64), and a cousin, and a staff consisting of a "nurse" (nanny?), "servant" and Irish-from-Ireland "coachman"! Ten humans!

'Course, when Dr. FC and Clara moved in, they installed their own Irish servant as well as a Polish one. It's at that point (the 1900 Census) that the trail runs cold on the house's history. The previous Census, in 1890, was evidently destroyed by a fire! And I can't find the house in the 1880 Census or I haven't located any online property records for Essex County.

F. C. Wells, Jr., in the American Legation in Peking in 1912

He's wearing a round hat, in the center of back row. He was there with the YMCA, as a recreation and physical-education director.

This was also part of the "Princeton in Asia" program, whose Website says, "The essence of PiA is to provide transformative, service-oriented experiences for bright, talented graduates and to serve the needs of Asia as determined by our host institutions and Asian partners. PiA arranges fellowships and internships with Asian host organizations in the fields of education, health, international development, environmental advocacy, journalism, engineering, technology, law and business. Fellowships are the means of fostering person-to-person diplomacy, enhancing mutual understanding, serving vulnerable communities with unmet needs and providing transformative experiences for fellows and host communities."

More on the Legation Quarter and the Boxer Rebellion: "After several months of growing violence against foreign and Christian presence in Shandong and the North China plain, in June 1900 Boxer fighters, convinced they were invulnerable to foreign weapons, converged on Beijing with the slogan "Support the Qing, exterminate the foreigners." Foreigners and Chinese Christians sought refuge in the Legation Quarter. In response to reports of an armed invasion to lift the siege, the initially hesitant Empress Dowager Cixi supported the Boxers and on June 21 authorized war on foreign powers. Diplomats, foreign civilians and soldiers, and Chinese Christians in the Legation Quarter were under siege by the Imperial Army of China and the Boxers for 55 days." (Wikipedia)

"Princeton Men In Peking" & "The Princeton Work in Peking"

The May 13, 1913 Princetonian (below) reports on the activities of FC Wells, Jr., at the end of his two-year "term of service among the Legation Guards" in Peking. He was to return to the US the following fall and presumably soon afterward joined Union Settlement and began romancing

The work done by the Princeton men in Peking, China, during the past year has not only been of far greater scope than in any previous year, but augurs exceptionally well for success in the future. The undergraduates contributed $1000 to the work while a total number of 298 members from the classes graduating from 1882 to 1911 made subscriptions amounting to over seven thousand dollars.

The present members of the Princeton colony in Peking are, Robert R. Gailey '96 and his wife and two children; Dwight W. Edwards '04; J. Stewart Burgess '05 and his wife and one child; Amos N. Hoagland '06 and Mrs. Hoagland and Franklin C. Wells '11. Mr. Wells will return this Fall after the usual two-year term of service among the Legation Guards, his place being taken by L. D. Howell 1913 who has been unusually successful in his work at the Summer Camp.

the Head Worker's daughter, Sophie Douglass White (whom he married in January 1917)!

An article titled "The Princeton Work in Peking" in the Princeton Alumni Weekly (February 11, 1914) includes this photograph of "The Princeton Colony in Peking." The article explains, "Franklin C. Wells '11 has just returned, enthusiastic about the Peking Work, and is studying at Union Theological Seminary. He stood second general group in his studies at Princeton, barely missing the honor of a ΦBK key [Phi Beta Kappa]. He is a member of Dial Lodge, was Captain of the Championship Wrestling Team of 1911, and speedily established his status among the soldiers in Peking by easily throwing their champion wrestler."

F.C. Wells, Jr., and Sophie Douglass White's Engagement Announcement

Recently I was ruminating about when FCW and SDW graduated from college. Then I found the NY Times engagement announcement for FCW and SDW, which includes that info. The article is dated May 25, 1916 and states:

"Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Starin White of Union Settlement, 237 East 104th Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sophie Douglass White, to Franklin Chamberlain Wells, Jr., son of Dr. Franklin C. Wells and Mrs. Wells of Bloomfield, N.J. Miss White was graduated from Vassar College in 1915. Mr. Wells was graduated from Princeton in 1911 and since then has been engaged in the Princeton Work in Peking, China, and also in social work in this city."

“Poem by Susie,” Norton, Conn., July 1954

I love this photograph for many reasons—but principally because it shows my mother and her family just a few months after I was born.

The White Family, Union Settlement (c. 1909)

Patricia Hopkins Shoyinka additionally reports, “1909 was the first summer that the GSW family spent in West Falmouth [MA]. They stayed for about 3 months at least (vacation time). And they summered with the Frank and Anna Moore family (Anna was Sophia’s sister) in the same house. That house is still standing and lived in.”

At this time, GSW was the “head worker” at Union Settlement, 237 E. 104th Street, New York City, where he lived with his family. This is where young Sophie met F. C. Wells, Jr. You may wonder what a “settlement” house is. I know I did and it was only within the past few years that I came to understand there was a major settlement movement in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Essentially, they were community centers in poor neighborhoods. Union Settlement, for example, was in East Harlem. One key component of Settlement houses is that their social workers lived in the houses themselves. Thus, GSW’s family in this picture all resided at Union Settlement.

My understanding is that GSW and family moved to Union Settlement in 1901 and remained there until 1920--last residing at 246 E. 105th St. (according to the 1920 US Census). In 1920, he became director of the Department of Church and Community Service at Union Theological Seminary (and, in 1929, Dean of Students), where he resided at the time of his death on 25 November 1931. Their Seminary residence was at 606 W. 122nd Street, New York.

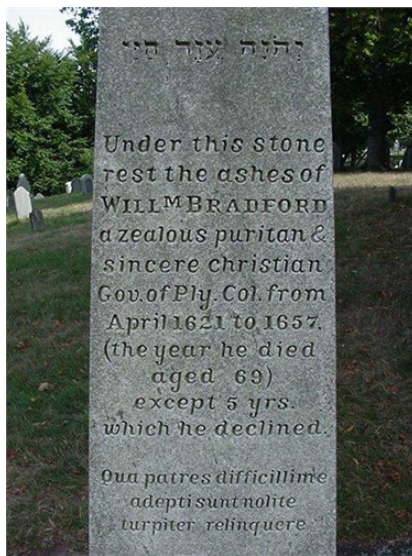

His name lives on in East Harlem as a senior-citizen housing building at East 104th Street and 2nd Avenue has been named after him, as explained on the New York City Housing Authority's Website.

Once I started researching the settlement movement I found that there is quite a bit written on it--including a 1911 article by Gaylord Starin White himself, titled, "The Social Settlement after Twenty-Five Years," in The Harvard Theological Review, Vol. 4, No. 1. (Jan., 1911), pp. 47-70.

Further, there are a few academic books on the topic, several of which mention GSW:

- Allen Davis, Spearheads for Reform: The Social Settlements & the Progressive Movement, 1890 to 1914
- Mina Carson, Settlement Folk: Social Thought and the American Settlement Movement, 1885-1930
- Harry P. Kraus, The Settlement Movement in New York City, 1886-1914 (NY: Arno Press, 1980).
 - A thesis, written in 1970, about New York social settlements, which includes this acknowledgement: "I owe a special debt to Mrs. Franklin C. Wells and her brother, Mr. Charles T. White, for materials and personal recollections concerning their father, Gaylord S. White."
 - GSW is quoted and cited several times, and over three pages are devoted to his life and his participation in the Union Settlement (including his annual salary of $3,500!) -- pp. 93-96.

William Bradford Headstone

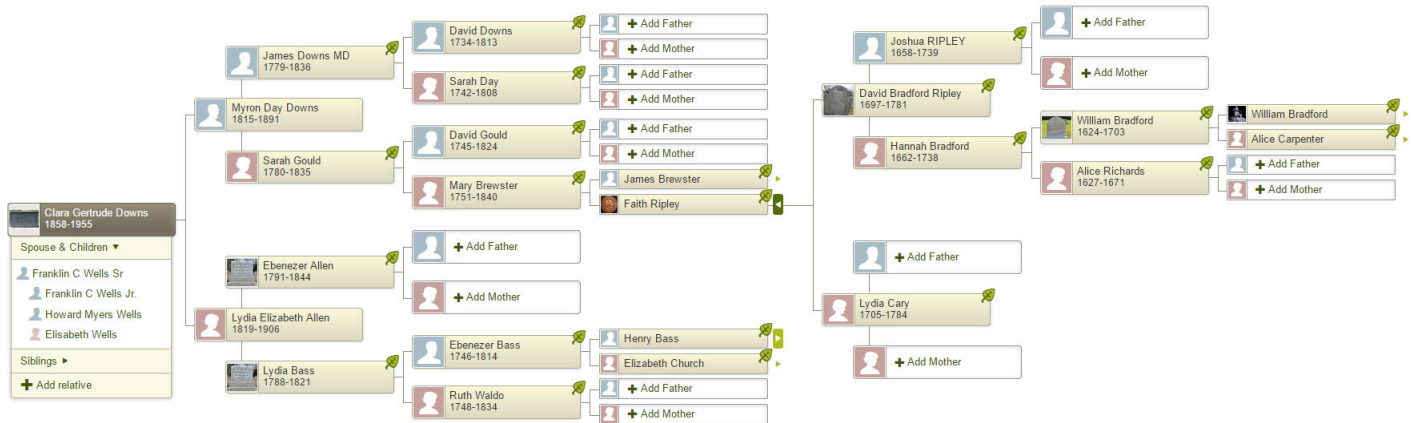

In one of the last boxes I sorted through at my parents' house during May 2014 I stumbled across quite a find: genealogies of the Downs and Wells families compiled by Elizabeth Wells Shoemaker in 1976! Wow! It tracks Clara G. Downs back to Mayflower passengers, William Brewster, John Howland, and Governor Wiliam Bradford. And it tracks her husband, Franklin C. Wells, Sr. back to Thomas Graves, who came to the New World in 1629. Elizabeth collected her genealogical research in a nice spiral binder. Although Elizabeth does not note this, the Wells family (then spelled "Welles," as in Orson Welles) arrived in New England just a few years later, in 1636, when Thomas and Alice Tomes Welles traveled from Warwickshire, England to Boston.

Remember: qua patres difficillime adepti sunt nolite turpiter relinquere (What our forefathers with so much difficulty secured, do not basely relinquish.)

F.C. Wells, Jr., Hosts an Urban League Benefit Show with Ed Sullivan

F.C. Wells, Jr., once shared the stage with famed TV host Ed Sullivan!

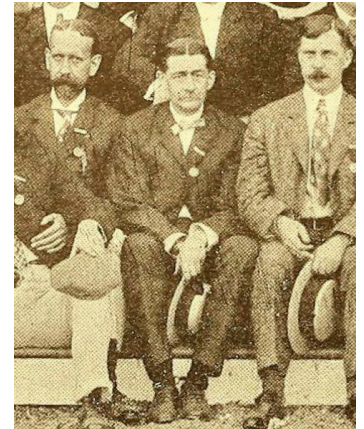

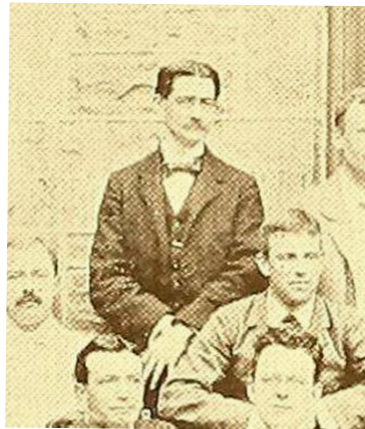

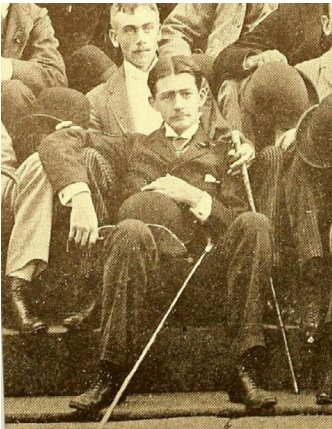

First, I found a NY Times article about an Urban League benefit in 1933 "with Ed Sullivan, Rose McClendon [Broadway actress], and Franklin Wells in charge of the stage..."

I've found references to other presentations FCW hosted. So, it's clear he enjoyed doing this sort of thing. After seeing that NYT piece, I contacted the New York Public Library, where the Urban Leagues archives are stored and I scored a reproduction of the event's actual program (below)!

Gaylord Starin White, Princeton Reunion Photographs: Class of 1886

Details from the group pix of GSW's class of 1886's reunions: first, tenth and twentieth. My favorite is the first (below, left), where he's reclining, age 23, between another guy's legs! Is there some object on his leg, aside from the bowler hat and the cane between his legs?

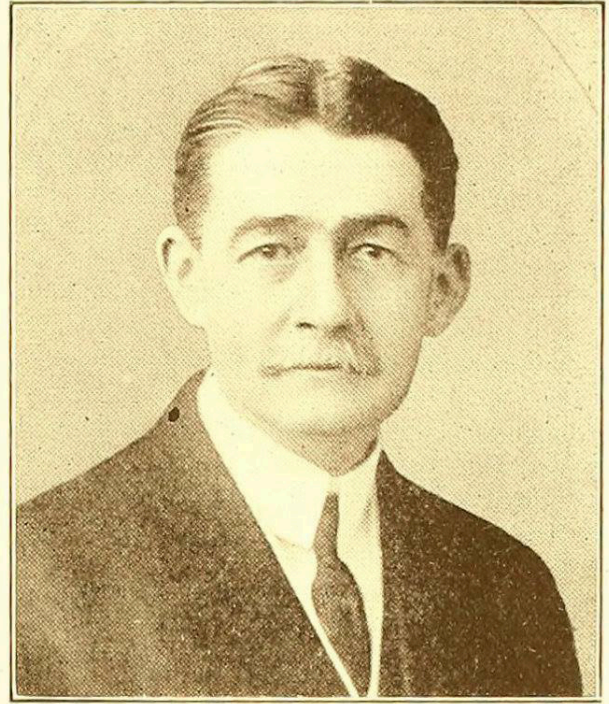

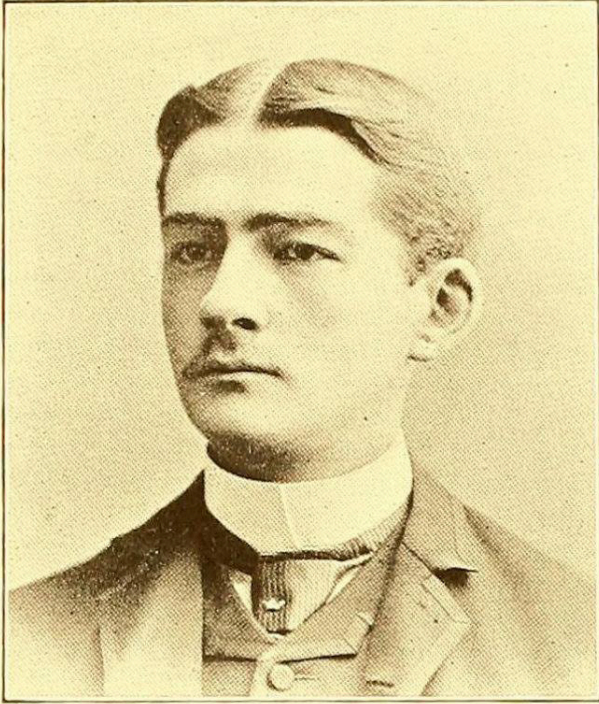

Gaylord Starin White 25th Princeton Reunion Book: Class of 1886

The Princeton archives holds many treasures. Here are two photos (below) of Gaylord Starin White from the class of 1886's 25th reunion book. I'm guessing the one on the left is from when he was a senior (1886) and the one on the right is from 1911, when he was about 47 and his daughter, Sophie, was about to graduate from Horace Mann High School and head to Vassar! He died in 1931, aged 67.

GSW's entry in the book reads:

Gaylord was born in New Rochelle, N. Y., on March 3, 1864, a son of Charles Trumbull White and Georgianna Starin White. He went to Williston Seminary at Easthampton, Mass., and Chapin Collegiate School, New York. From 1882 to 1884 he was at the University of New York, entering Princeton in September 1884 and graduating as A.B. in 1886.

WHITE

After graduation, Gaylord went on The New York Tribune, as a reporter for the Fresh Air Fund, in which work he was succeeded in the following year by the Class Secretary. From 1887 to 1890 he was a student at Union Theological Seminary, New York. After graduation there, he became a student in Berlin and Oxford.

He was ordained by the Presbytery of New York on May 15, 1892, and became assistant minister of Rutgers Presbyterian Church in New York. From 1893 to 1901 he was pastor of the City Park Branch of the First Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, N. Y. He was called in May 1901 to Union Theological Seminary as Director of Student Christian Work and Headworker of Union Settlement, and later became lecturer on Applied Christianity at the Seminary and Stafif lecturer at New York School of Philanthropy.

Gaylord has been especially interested in social movements. He was in residence at Toynbee Hall, London, in 1892, and while an active minister developed his church work along "institutional" lines, with especial attention to the working classes. As Headworker of the Union Settlement, Gaylord has accomplished a splendid work, and has been actively identified with charitable and educational work among the working classes.

Gaylord was married in New York on June 6, 1892, to Miss Sophie Douglass Young, and has four children, two boys and two girls: Sophie Douglass, born April 3, 1893; Charles Trumbull, born October 6, 1896; Cleveland Stuart, born July 28, 1900, and Katharine Gaylord, born April 9, 1903.

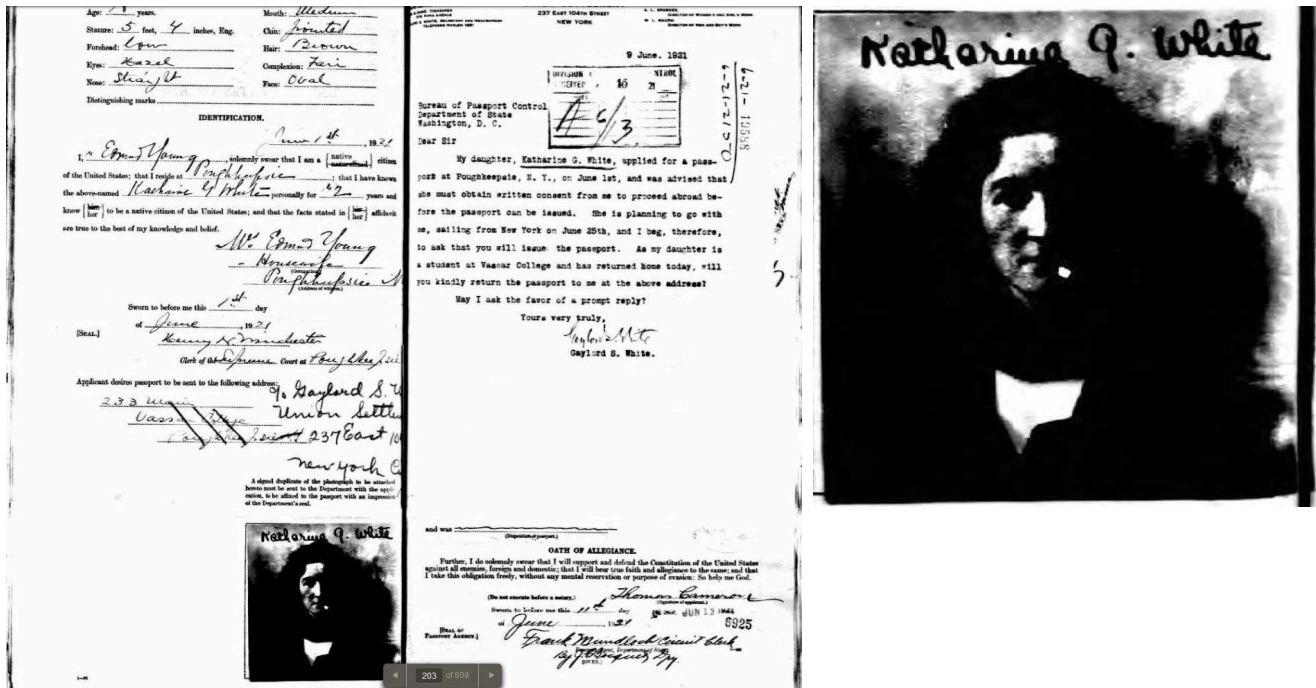

All four children are now at Horace Mann School, New York. Sophie D. goes to Vassar in the fall of 1911 and the two boys are headed for Princeton.

Gaylord writes, "My life has been uneventful but very happy, barring the sense of work undone that ought to have been done and the lack of results. I have been fortunate in having done the kind of things that I liked to do. My main interest for many years has been in social questions and for seventeen years I have lived and worked with those who live by the work of their hands—the industrial classes. Several of the old boys of '86 have given me good support in my work, both financial and otherwise, and I have found the friendships of college days a rich experience in many directions."

Gaylord was one of the incorporators in February 1910 of the Association of Tuberculosis Clinics of the City of New York.

Katharine White's Passport Application (1921)

I found this passport application from 1921 and another from 1924 on ancestry.com. That site has an amazing collection of digital databases (census data, passport applications, death notices, etc.). The 1921 application includes a note from her father indicating his permission for her to travel. (See photo of the back of the app below.)

Passports to Constantinople

The first passport photo is of Charles T. White from 1920 when he applied for a passport in order to work for Near East Relief in Constantinople! Remember, the armistice was signed just two years earlier and the treaty of Versailles was signed June 28, 1919! There he met his future wife, Doris L. Goetz, of Minnesota, who was also working for NER (1921, second passport photo). They were married in Tiflis (modern-day Tbilisi, Georgia) on May 23rd 1923.

—The Class of 1911

This obit suggests an answer to me of the question, "How did FCW go from Settlement worker to architect?" Well, apparently, the first architect he worked for was a strong advocate for settlements. In fact, Arthur C. Holden wrote a book titled, The Settlement Idea: A Vision of Social Justice! I would guess this Holden guy, a Princeton pal of FCW's, pulled him into architecture!

Mrs. Gertrude Wells Dies in Acid Accident

The strangest, rather grisly story I've come across as I've dug into the ancestral history is that of Gertrude Wells, who was married to F. C. Wells, Senior's brother, Samuel. Thus, she is my great-great-aunt, by marriage. However, Samuel and Gertrude were divorced sometime before 1919, when he married again.

In any event, in 1934 she died from accidentally swallowing acid. The burns took two months to kill her. As chronicled in this Chicago Daily Tribune article:

"she accidentally swallowed acid which she had been using to clean some of the rare coins in her collection at her home, 1511 Hyde Park boulevard. She was 60 years old.

While cleaning the coins Mrs. Wells contracted a headache. She swallowed a headache tablet, then reached for a glass of water. By mistake she picked up the glass of acid."

I cannot help but wonder how "accidental" this poisoning was. And why did she and Samuel Wells get divorced--which was extremely rare in the 1910s? The 1920 census shows her living in Colorado, of all places, listed as "divorced," with two of their kids. What's up with that? Did she move to CO to get divorced?

Incidentally, Gertrude's father, Thomas Hoyne, was a major Chicago politico who "won" a mayoral race in 1875 only to have it taken away from him by bureaucratic shenanigans.

Elizabeth Dun Young: In France During World War I

Elizabeth Dun Young, aka Auntie, was Sophie White's aunt, the youngest sibling of Sophie Douglass Young. Died in 1964.

I found some cool passport-application info for her today. She served with the Red Cross and the YMCA in France during WW I, 1917-1919! According to Penny Keenan, "she not only drove an ambulance, but was decorated by the French government for her service."

And check out this passport-application pic of her wearing a necktie in 1923!

Don't believe she ever married. The most recent census data I can find for her (1940) shows her living with her brother, Henry, who was an x-ray photographer at some Manhattan hospital. I found her in Teacher's College's Annual Commencement, Volumes 138-153 (1892) and Catalogue of officers and graduates of Columbia university from the foundation of King's college in 1754 (1916) on books.google.com .

According to the latter, EDY received her BS in 1907 and her AM in 1908. She received a "special diploma" (?) in "Kindergarten supervision" and a BS in education.

About her "Dun" middle name...

The Duns and the Douglasses and the firm of Dun & Bradstreet intertwine in many interesting and slightly scandalous ways. Most notably, as explained in Seventy-five years of the Mercantile agency, R.G. Dun & co., 1841-1916 (hooray for the public domain that allows such documents to be put online!):

“The trips made by Mr. [Benjamin] Douglass to Ohio while he was a merchant at New Orleans may have been the indirect cause of Mr. [Robert Graham] Dun entering the service of the [Mercantile] Agency, for at that time he met Miss Elizabeth Dun, a sister of Robert G. Dun, whom he subsequently married. By a remarkable coincidence Mr. Douglass also had a sister named Elizabeth, who married Mr. Dun. It was, in all probability, this relationship by marriage that directed the attention of Mr. Douglass to the advantages of bringing the young Ohioan [R. G. Dun] to New York to assist him in the management of the business.”

To put this in the context of our family:

My great-great-great-grandfather, George Douglass (1790-1869), had many children, among them were Benjamin (1816-1900), Elizabeth (1817-1882), Jane (1821-1892), and my great-great-grandmother, Sophia Douglass (1838-1908, grandmother of Sophie White).

The Douglasses and the Duns had quite an affinity for one another as Benjamin Douglass married Elizabeth Dun and Elizabeth Douglass married R. G. Dun! And, in terms of the Dun & Bradstreet business, its roots are in the Mercantile Agency, which was founded by Lewis Tappan, but brought to prominence by Benjamin Douglass. Douglass brought Dun into the business and Dun eventually bought him out and merged the company with Bradstreet.

Interesting, eh?

Well, here’s the slightly scandalous last bit to this story:

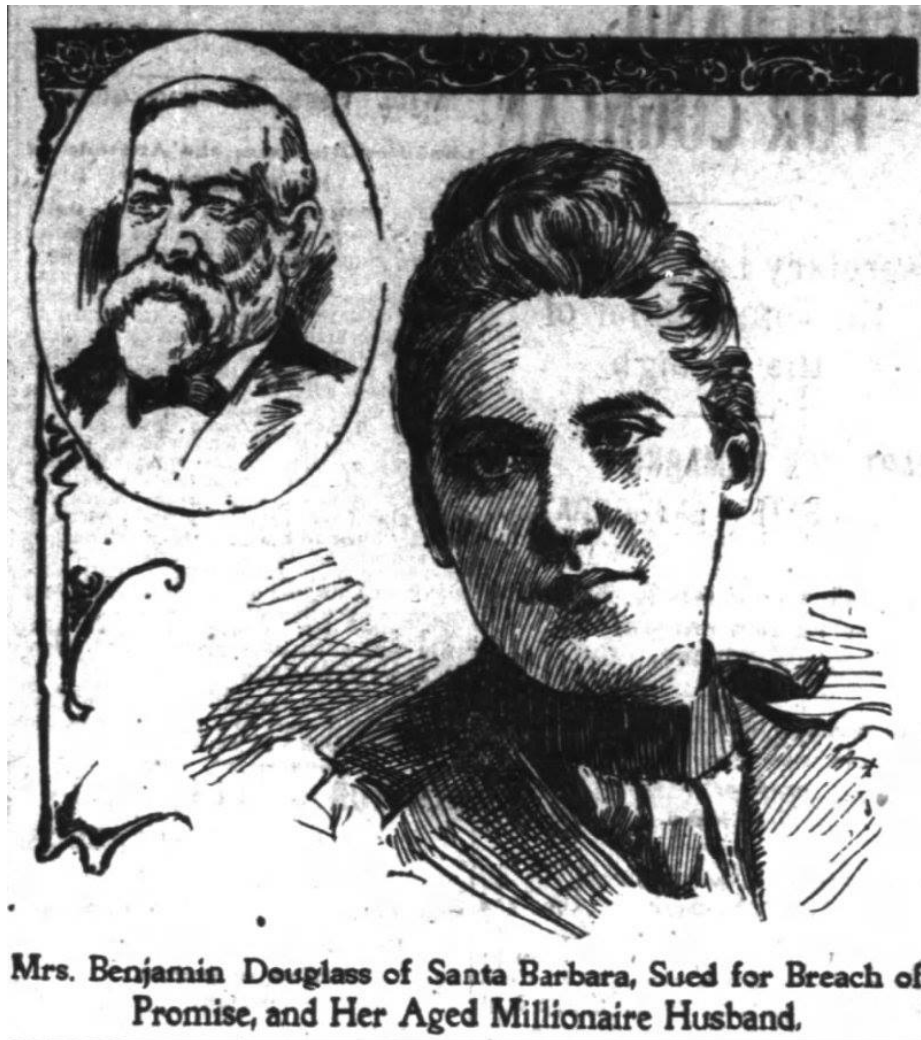

R.G. Dun’s wife, the former Elizabeth Douglass, died in 1882. Two years later, he married Jane Douglass’s daughter, Mary. That’s right, he married his, by marriage, niece, who was 23 years younger than him!

It took me some time to suss this, because Mary’s last name was Bradford. That’s become the first of Jane’s three marriages was to Charles Bradford, of Wisconsin. Mary is thus the daughter of Jane and Charles Bradford.

I suspect this marriage was hushed up at the time as I could find no mention of it in newspapers from 1884—even though R.G. was a prominent millionaire by that time. (They were married at his estate on Narragansett Pier, RI, and not in New York.) When Mary died in 1910 it was revealed that she had NOT inherited all of R. G.’s wealth, that she was living on a (large) monthly allowance. Perhaps this was due to a pre-nup?

Thus, for me, R.G. Dun is both my great-great-grand uncle and the husband of a first cousin, three times removed.

One More Thing About the Douglass-Dun Connection

So, this Benjamin Douglass, a millionaire due to his early involvement with the Mercantile Agency/Dun & Bradstreet and my great-great-great uncle, also got involved in a bit of a scandal toward the end of his life. Decades after his wife, Elizabeth Dun, died he decided that he deserved to have some female companionship and, at the age of 75, married his maid—in Santa Barbara in 1897.

He was quoted in the San Francisco Chronicle: "I am one of the old boys who feels like doing what he pleases."

His bride, Louise Kretzler, is described thus: "She is a native of Germany, good-looking and of pleasant manners."

This threw the Douglass family into quite a tizzy, leading several of Benjamin's children, who were older than his bride to refuse to sit at the dinner table with her.

Also, Ms. Kretzler was apparently engaged to another man the year before she married BD and that guy sued them for "injuries to his affections," to the tune of $20,000.

Donald "Connell alleges that Miss Kentzler promised to marry him in 1896, and wore an engagement ring that she selected herself, and he had paid for and that she had held the horse while he went into the County Clerk's office to secure the license. He still has the license as a souvenir of the occasion, but he never had an opportunity to put it to its intended use."

The Chronicle does not report the outcome of his suit, or the situation of their horse.

This illustration comes from the front page of the Chronicle.

Wells-Downs Wedding (1888)

My great-grandparents, F.C. Wells, Sr. and Clara Downs, had their wedding announcement in the Inter Ocean newspaper (Chicago) on 9 Dec 1888.

The wedding was held at 1:00 on a Tuesday at the bride's family home. Then... "At 3:15 o'clock Dr.

tulle. She wore diamonds and carried a bouquet of white roses.

A beautiful private wedding was celebrated Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Downs, No. 976 West Adams street, the contracting parties being Miss Clara Gertrude Downs and Mr. Franklin C. Wells, M. D. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. L. Withrow, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. G. K. McClure, of Lake Forest, Ill. There were no bridesmaids. Mr. Walter B. Downs, brother of the bride, and Mr. E. S. Wells, Jr., brother of the groom, acted as ushers. The lovely bride was attired in an elegant brown broadcloth traveling costume and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bride was the recipient of many rich and costly presents. At 3:15 o'clock Dr. and Mrs. Wells departed for Syria, where he is to assume a professorship in the American Protestant College at Beyroot. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Downs, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wells, M. D. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Well, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Penefield, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers, of Oak Park; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Durand, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Durand, Mrs. J. B. Durand, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Downs, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hyde, E. A. Downs, Mrs. L. O. Downs, C. S. Downs, Mr. A. H. Downs, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Faulkner, the Misses Wells, Faulkner, Durand, Emery, the Messrs. Wells and E. H. Allen, of New York.

The marriage of Miss Grace Farwell, daughter of the Hon. Charles B. Farwell, and Mr. Dudley Winston, son of Frederick H. Winston, formerly and Mrs Wells departed for Syria, where he is to assume a professorship in the American Protestant College at Beyroot [sic]."

Hmmm... kinda makes you wonder if the 4 Dec wedding might have been a rush job cuz little Frankie, Jr., arrived on 6 Oct 1889-- just 10 months later...

The First Duel in the "New World"

My ninth great grandfather was involved in the what is reputed to be the first duel in the "new world."

Edward Doty (aka, Edward Doten) came to America on the Mayflower, as a servant to one Stephen Hopkins. Apparently, Doty was quite the rascal:

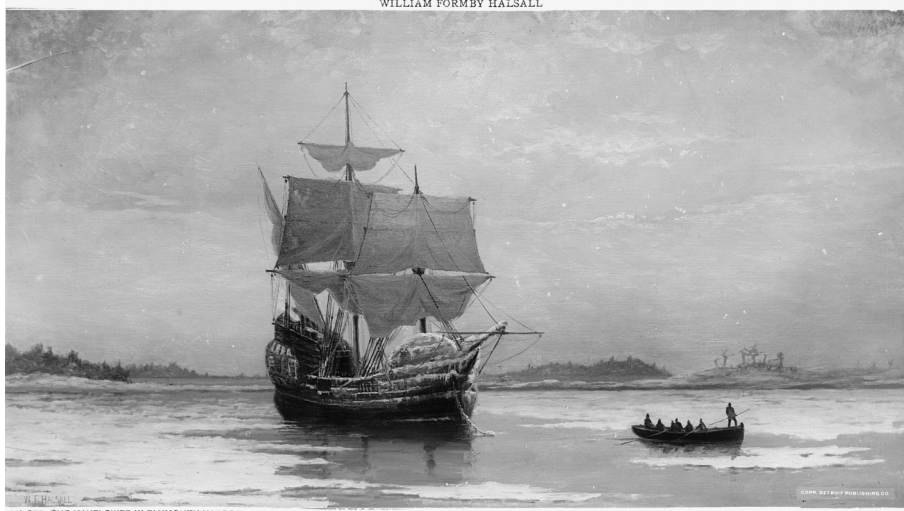

"In June 1621, he engaged in a sword and dagger duel with fellow Hopkins servant Edward Leister; both were wounded before being separated, and were punished by having their head and feet tied together for an hour (it was supposed to have been for a whole day, but they were let go early because of their apparent suffering).

Edward Doty made regular appearances in Plymouth Colony Court throughout his life, mostly just being sued for various misdemeanors (failing to pay on a contract; failing to keep his cows fenced; not properly caring for a servant), but occasionally for more serious infractions (twice for assault, once for theft, and once for slander)."

For more, see mayflowerhistory.com/doty/

Apparently, I work my way back to Doty through the Wells line of the family (see pedigree below starting with Miles Doolittle Wells). I'd never heard this story until a few months ago, although I had been told of my connection to Gov. Bradford of the pilgrims. The line to Gov. Bradford stems from Clara Downs, who married into the Wells line—wedding Miles Wells's grandson, F. C. Wells, Sr. in 1888.de

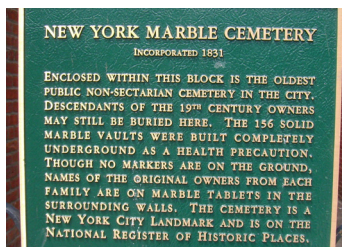

WILLIAM FORMBY HALSALL

So, Doty and Bradford are both my 9th great-grandfathers, because my great-grandfather, F. C. Wells, Sr., who descended from one of Plymouth's biggest trouble-makers, married a descendant of one of its first governors, Clara Downs Wells.

New York Marble Cemetery, Incorporated 1831

This is a bit ghoulish, but also fascinating. The Douglass family, of which I am a descendant, owns an underground vault in New York Marble Cemetery, which is in the heart of Manhattan, in the East Village. Oh, and it should not be confused with nearby New York City Marble Cemetery, although it often is.

As a descendant of George Douglass, I am eligible to be buried in his vault. Weird thought, eh? And a little spooky.

Wikipedia provides some history:

"The cemetery was founded as a commercial undertaking of Perkins Nichols, who hired two lawyers, Anthony Dey and George W. Strong, to serve as organizing trustees. Recent outbreaks of yellow fever led city residents to fear burying their dead in fXRjaThm coffins just a few feet below ground, and public health legislation had outlawed earthen burials. Nichols intended to appeal to this market by providing underground vaults for burial.

Dey and Strong purchased the property on Nichols's behalf, on what was then the northern edge of residential development, on July 13, 1830, and Nichols had the 156 underground family vaults, each the size of a small room, constructed from Tuckahoe marble and laid out in a grid of six columns by 26 rows. He was then reimbursed from the sale of the vaults.

Access to each pair of barrel vaults is by the removal of a stone slab set well below the grade of the lawn, which has no monuments or markers. Marble tablets mounted in the long north and south walls give the names of the original vault owners - though not the names of burials - and indicate the precise location of each corresponding underground vault. As of May 2011, parts of the north wall had collapsed, and other sections of it were reinforced with steel buttresses.

Nichols, Dey & Strong, and the subscribers applied to the New York State Legislature for a special act of incorporation, and this was granted on February 4, 1831."

More photographs of New York Marble Cemetery are available from the Museum of the City of New York.

Sophie White at the YWCA College Day, Silver Bay, NY, 1909 and 1910

In 1909 and 1910, Sophie Douglass White went to a YWCA camp at Silver Bay, on Lake George, as a delegate from her high school (Horace Mann). Apparently, on "college day" each group of delegates would dress up and do skits and pranks.

In the photo above, she (my grandmother!) in the back row, far right. And in the photo to the right, I believe she is third from the left, if the caption is to be trusted!

I found this pic and one other in the Horace Mann yearbook, The Mannikin!

Colonial Hijinks with Philip Starin

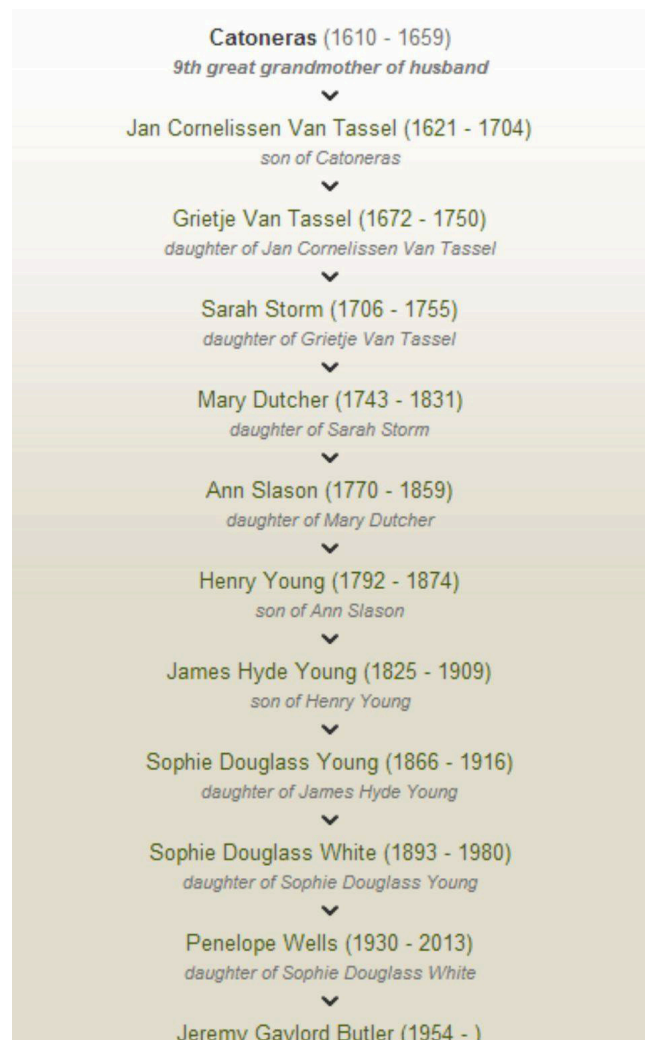

Today's story of colonial hijinks involves my 6th great grandfather, Philip Frederick Adam Starin (1715-1801):

"Among the well-authenticated traditions of the Starin family, also, regarding Philip, is the following: One day as he was at work at his forge, three Indians came in and peremptorily commanded him to drop at once the work upon which he was then engaged and attend to some job for them. Upon his not immediately complying with their demand, one of the Indians plunged a knife into his abdomen, letting out a portion of his bowels.

Notwithstanding, however, this terrible wound, he pulled out from the fire a red hot iron bar he was mending at the time, and with one blow laid the savage dead at his feet. Whereupon, the other two Indians fled in the direst consternation. Mr. Starin recovered from this terrible wound, and lived many years afterward."

—William L. Stone, The Starin Family in America (Albany, NY: Joel Munsell's Sons, Publishers, 1892), p18

Catoneras, a Native American Sunksqua

My ancestors never cease to surprise me.

For example: my 8th-great grandmother was Catoneras, a Native American sunksqua (queen or female sachem) from the 1600s.

She had an apparently consensual relationship with Dutchman Cornelis Jansen Van Texel (Tassel), out of which was born Jan Cornelissen Van Tassel, in about 1625. This image shows the lineage from her to me. There's a fascinating article online that refers to her as "Long Island's Pocahontas."

She was likely a Matinecock Indian, who were associated with the Montaukett on Long Island (source of the name, Montauk Point). In fact, as her descendant, I can apply for membership in the Montaukett nation at montaukett.net!

Timothy Pfeiffer and the Hall-Mills Murders (1922)

A graphic novel was written about the notorious Hall-Mills murders of 1922 by Rick Geary. Titled Lovers' Lane: The Hall-Mills Mystery, it includes a likeness of Timothy Newell Pfeiffer (1886-1971)—lawyer for one of the defendants and the father of my uncle, T Pfeiffer (1916-1999).

Sadly, there's just this one drawing of TNP in it. "Timothy N. Pfeiffer and Robert H. McCarter were members of the defense team, dubbed the 'Million Dollar Defense.'

Pfeiffer was Mrs. Hall's personal attorney. Pfeiffer and McCarter (founder of the prestigious McCarter & English) were joined by State Senator

Clarence Case and four other attorneys."

Sarah Gould Downs Marries an Andersonville Survivor, Calvin Durand

This formidable woman, my great-grand aunt Sarah Downs, married a man who was imprisoned in the notorious Andersonville during the Civil War. Specifically, she married Calvin Durand in 1867, just two years after he was released from captivity.

His entire ordeal is described in a memorial book published to honor the two of them, which is now on archive.org! See page 28 and following:

archive.org/details/calvindurandsara00dura

Discovering this interesting historical note led me to a tenuous connection between me and Lake Forest College that involves Sarah Downs Durand. (Lake Forest College interests me because several Wells and Downs family members went there in the late 1800s.)

Okay, so Calvin Durand is my great-grand uncle, by marriage. Now, his mother, one Lois Barnes Durand was apparently quite formidable herself (no picture yet found). According to a memorial book, "the influence of this mother's life upon each member of her family was profound. That influence secured the erection of the dormitory for young women of Lake Forest College that so fittingly bears her name, 'Lois Durand Hall,'" which was built in 1899, after she was dead (p. 27). Photographs of it are here and there's quite a bit of detail about the building's history:

<http://puka.cs.waikato.ac.nz/cgi-bin/cic/library?a=d&d=p968>

I know, she's my great-grand aunt's mother-in-law, so not much of a bond, but I'm intrigued about her family's connection to LFC as this was about the same time that the Wells and Downs ancestors were attending it. All very incestuous!

Also, the info on the building includes this nugget:

"Around 1905, Hull House founder Jane Addams spoke to the residents."

Of course, Hull House was Chicago's most famous Settlement House. By 1905, Gaylord Starin White was already the head worker at Union Settlement and must have known of Addams' work.

Starin's Glen Island

I learned that my sister, Starin, apparently owns her own island, with a theme park on it. Kidding. It was actually the pet project of John Henry Starin. (Hat tip to mcnyblog.org for alerting me to Starin's Glen Island.)

John Henry Starin (1825-1909) is my first cousin, 5x removed. That is, his grandfather, also John Henry Starin (1754-1832), is my 5th great grandfather.

Moreover, in The Starins of America, I found this account of Glen Island:

"The famous Glen Island, one of Mr. Starin's hobbies, is beautifully situated opposite New Rochelle, on Long Island Sound. It was formerly called Locust Island. Having first purchased it with a view to a summer residence, the artistic eye of Mr. Starin at once perceived that by industry and by a lavish expenditure of money its natural beauties could be rendered the most eligible of all the places adopted for excursions in the neighborhood of New York.

The main island, which contains fifty acres, is shaded by maple and locust trees, and is the site of an elegant mansion, formerly occupied by the Prussian consul. There are also four smaller islands. This mansion is the center of unrivaled attractions, and was completed at a cost of $70,000. It is surrounded by lovely grounds, embellished with pretty alcoves and hot-houses, and contains fish-ponds, bathing facilities, bowling alleys, billiardrooms, etc. Tired citizens find welcome repose and recreation amid such lovely surroundings.

This island, moreover, overlooks Long Island Sound —always an interesting contemplation, both from the number and variety of the passing vessels and the exquisite beauty of its shores. Mr. Starin, within the last year, was offered $1,500,000 for the Glen Island property, by an hotel syndicate, which he refused.”

I also found this:

““Starin’s Glen Island.” This was a destination geared towards the middle-class and featured five cultures of the western world on display on individual islands linked together with piers and causeways.” —From a site devoted to preserving Starin’s estate: fortroyal.org/about/

F. C. Wells, Jr., Fine Artist

F. C. Wells, Jr., loved to paint. This one from 1943 is my favorite. It's a very allegorical work that represents the view outside his Manhattan office. The Butler Crest

I few years ago I began researching the Butler coat of arms. I even created my own version of it, as seen on the left. There's quite a bit of information about the meaning of the iconography of this crest, which may be found online: jeremygb.com/butlercrest

Cousin Wild Bill Hickok

I may have to re-view all the Deadwood episodes with Wild Bill Hickok in them now that I have just learned that James Butler "Wild Bill" Hickok is my 5th cousin 5x removed.

Our common ancestor is Nicholas Butler (1590-1671), my 10th great grandfather. Wild Bill's mother was a Butler by the name of Polly (1804-1878) who married William Alonzo Hickok (1801-1852) and gave birth to James Butler Hickok in 1837 in Homer, Illinois (now Troy Grove).

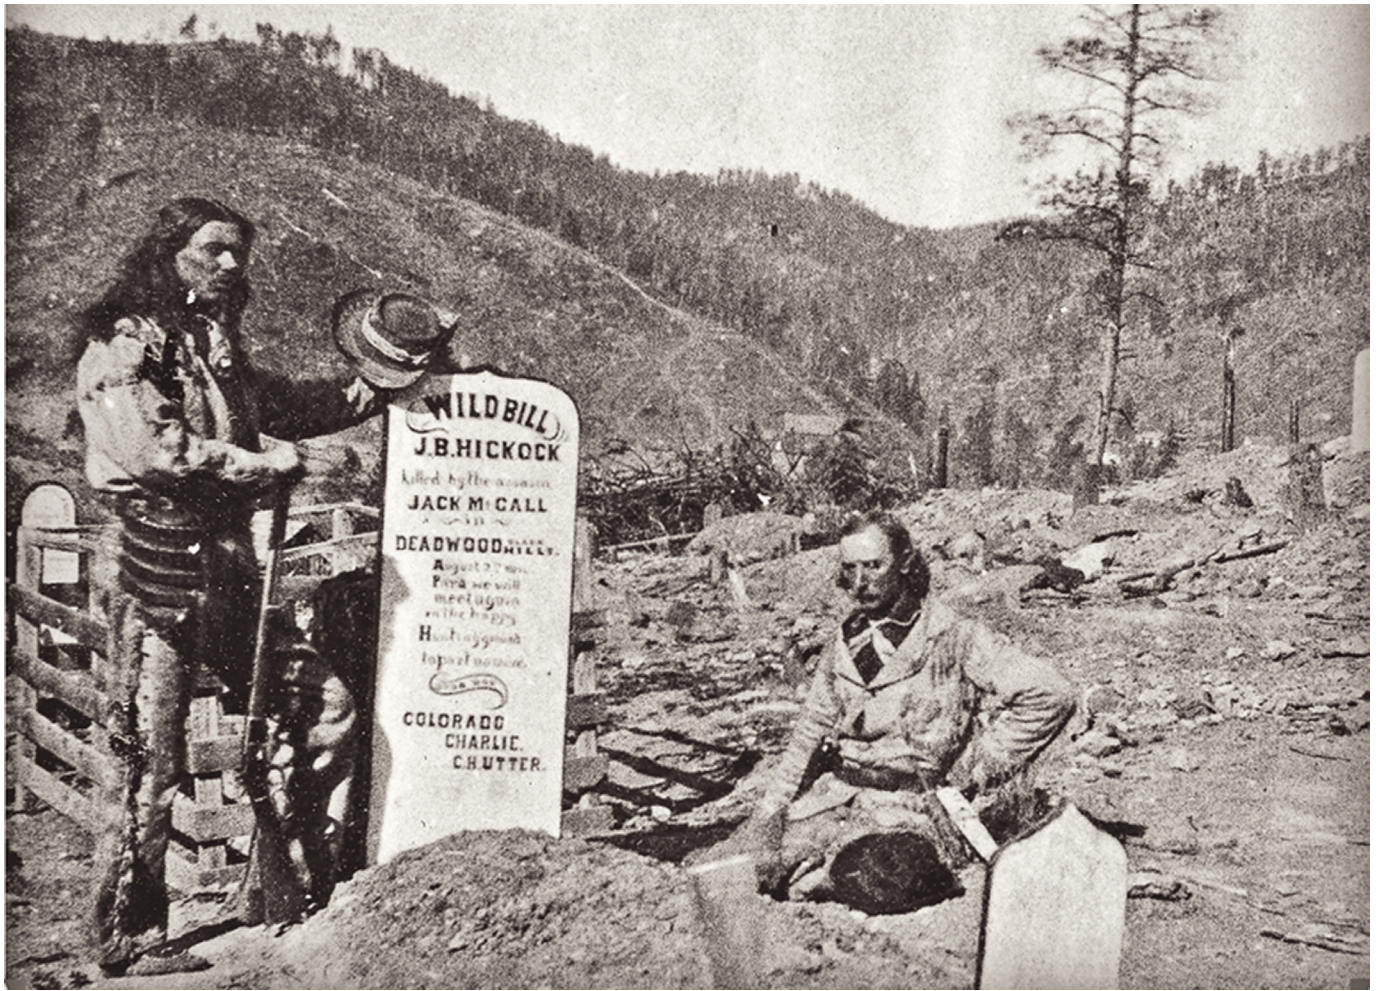

Hickok went by several different names over the years. According to Wikipedia: "While in Nebraska, Hickok was derisively referred to as 'Duck Bill.' He grew a mustache... and in 1861 began calling himself 'Wild Bill'". *Joseph G. Rosa add that "duck bill" was due to his "...sweeping nose and protruding upper lip..." (They Called Him Wild Bill: The Life and Adventures of James Butler Hickok [University of Oklahoma Press, 1979], p. 51).

He was assassinated by Crooked Nose Jack in Nuttal & Mann's Saloon in Deadwood, Dakota Territory (now South Dakota), on August 2, 1876, while holding the "[dead-man's \[poker\] hand](#)" of black aces and eights!

His friend, Colorado Charlie, buried him under a marker reading, "Wild Bill, J. B. Hickock [sic] killed by the assassin Jack McCall in Deadwood, Black Hills, August 2d, 1876. Pard, we will meet again in the happy hunting ground to part no more. Good bye, Colorado Charlie, C. H. Utter" (see photograph below).

Leonard Harold Boucher details what later happened to Hickok's body: "The great gunslinger was originally interred in Boothill, but later on his body was exhumed and buried in Mount Moriah Cemetery. To date, his grave has been decorated by no less than five markers, two of wood, two stone and one life-size statue, also stone."

One interesting sidebar to the story of William and Polly Hickok's family is that they "...operated a station on the Underground Railroad, helping escaped slaves to freedom. His sons often assisted with this work, and it was during these times that young James began to develop the courage, cunning and resourcefulness that marked his later years," according to Wild West magazine.

John Howland, Swept Overboard the Mayflower

From Governor William Bradford's journal (transcribed into contemporary English):

"In sundry of these storms the winds were so fierce, and the seas so high, as they could not bear a knot of sail, but were forced to hull ["To heave or lay-to under very short sail and drift with the wind”], for divers days together. And in one of them, as they thus lay at hull, in a mighty storm, a lusty [“lively, merry; no sexual connotation”] young man (called John Howland) coming upon some occasion above the gratings, was, with a seele [“roll or pitch”]of the ship thrown into the sea; but it pleased God that he caught hold of the topsail halyards, which hung overboard, and ran out at length; yet he held his hold (though he was sundry fathoms under water) till he was hauled up by the same rope to the brim of the water, and then with a boat hook and other means got into the ship

again, and his life saved; and though he was something ill with it, yet he lived many years after, and became a profitable member both in church and commonwealth.” (Source: Tales in the Tree; with annotations in square brackets taken from Samule Eliot Morison’s 1952 edition)

As it originally appears in the Bradford journal: “In sundrie of these stormes the winds were so feirce, & ye seas so high, as they could not beare a knote of saile, but were forced to hull, for diverce days together. And in one of them, as they thus lay at hull, in a mighty storme, a lustie yonge man (called John Howland) coming upon some occasion above ye grattings, was, with a seele of ye shipe throwne into [ye] sea; but it pleased God yt he caught hould of ye top-saile halliards, which hunge over board, & rane out at length; yet he held his hould (though he was sundrie fadomes under water) till he was hald up by ye same rope to ye brime of ye water, and then with a boat hooke & other means got into ye shipe againe, & his life saved; and though he was something ill with it, yet he lived many years after, and became a profitable member both in church & comone wealthe.

Pedigree Charts

The following pedigree charts diagram the ancestors of each of my grandparents over eleven generations:

1. Edward William Butler
(1900-1965)
2. Gwenyth Anita Goar Butler
(1911-2000)
3. Franklin Chamberlain Wells, Jr.
(1889-1969)
4. Sophie Douglass White Wells
(1893-1980)

This functionally creates ancestor trees for the Butler/Goar and Wells/White families back through the decades to when they first arrived in North America. Personally speaking, this is the most interesting part of my own genealogy—the years my ancestors have spent in North America. As you’ll see, most of these trees end with that branch’s first emigrant to the “New World”—whether than new world was in the 17th century or the 20th.-

A word about the creation and organization of these charts is in order. They were generated with Family Tree Maker software, using data synchronized with Ancestry.com. FTM can create enormous posters, but obviously that format would not fit into a book. FTM’s solution to this formatting issue is to print the diagram across several pages, with arrows in the right and left margins that indicate where to go from here—much like city maps that are printed across several pages of a book (in the days before Google Maps!).

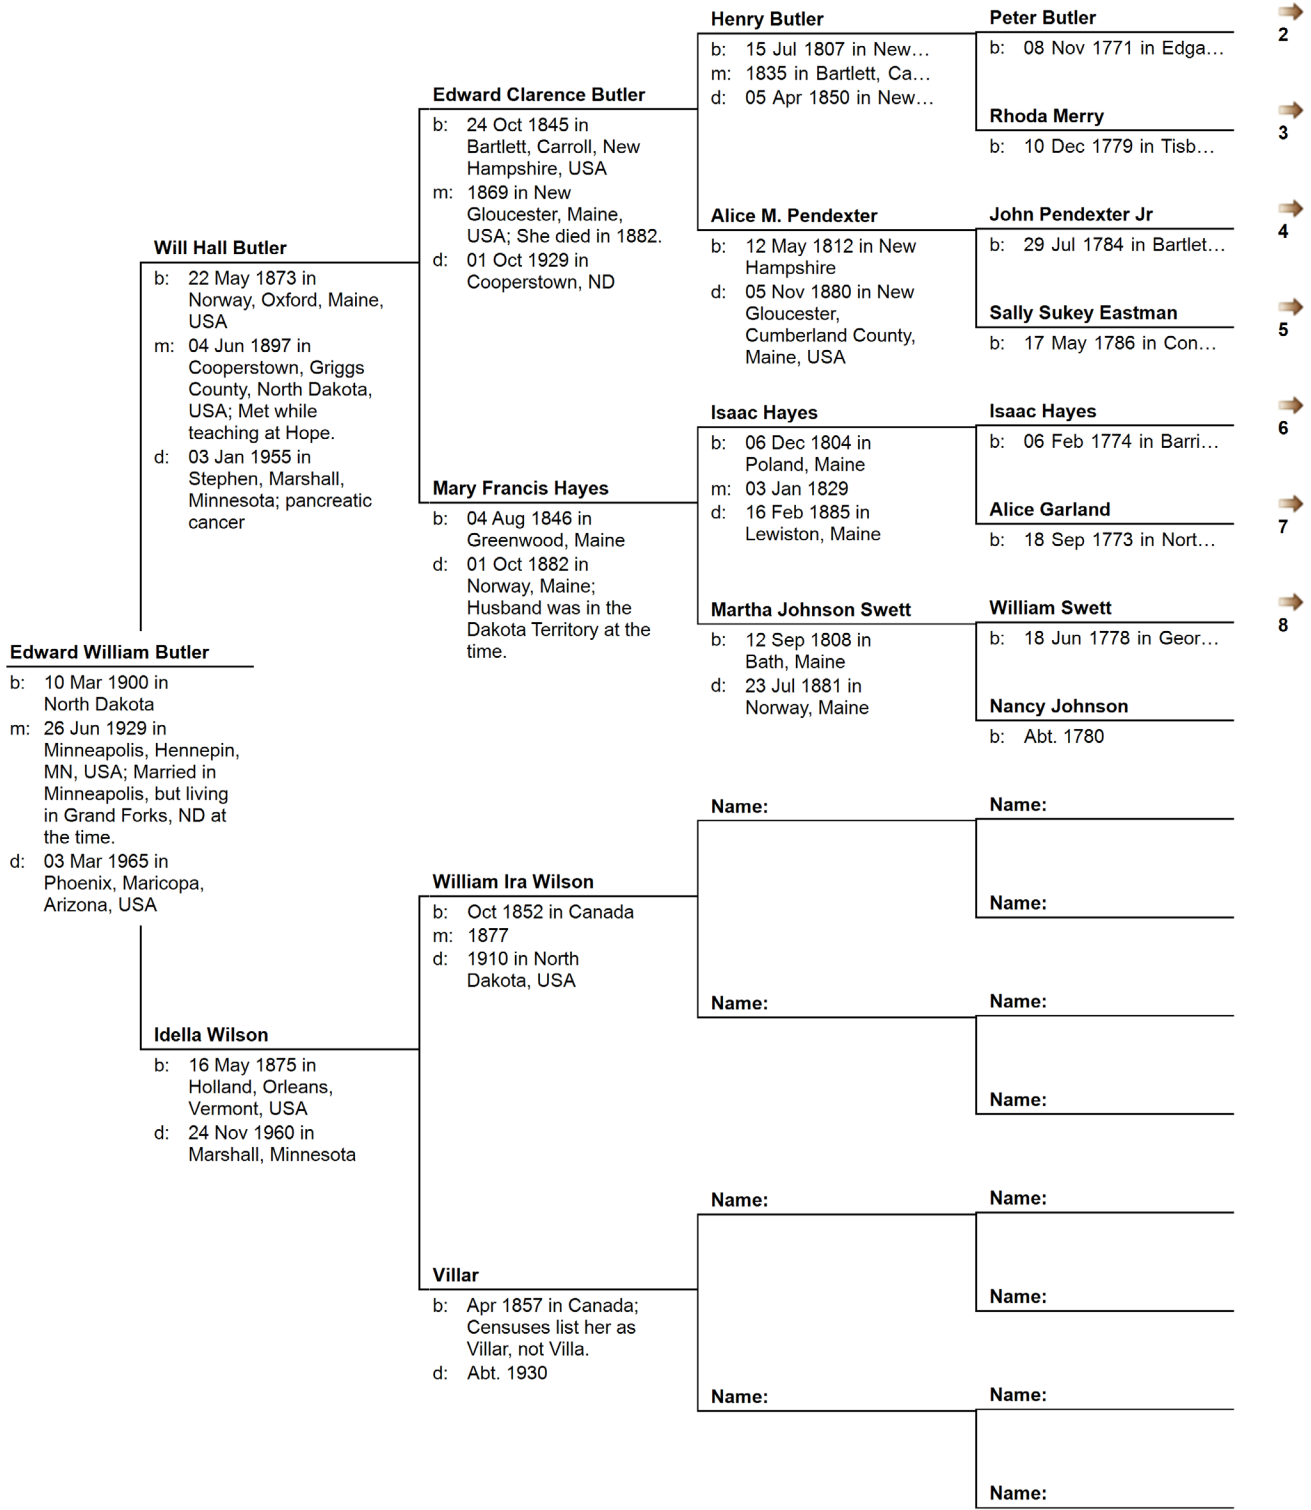

Thus, the first page of each pedigree has arrows in the right margin directing you to the page on which the pedigree continues.

Please note: each pedigree has its own distinct page numbers.

So, be sure to stick within one pedigree as you flip back and forth. The exception to this is Gwenyth Butler’s pedigree, which is on a single page.

Finally, the visual quality of these pedigrees is not as sharp as I would have liked, due to the process by which they were generated and then incorporated into this book for printing. For more detailed information, I refer you to the online version of these trees (<http://goo.gl/UhQGhM>) and to their ahnentafels (reproduced below).

Genealogical Data: Ahnentafel Reports

I must confess I had no idea what an ahnentafel was before purchasing the genealogical software, Family Tree Maker. And even now I find it a bit perplexing, but fortunately Wikipedia exists to answer all arcane questions:

“An ahnentafel (German for “ancestor table”)... is a genealogical numbering system for listing a person’s direct ancestors in a fixed sequence of ascent. The subject (proband or progenitor) of the ahnentafel is listed as No. 1, the subject’s father as No. 2 and the mother as No. 3, the paternal grandparents as No. 4 and No. 5 and the maternal grandparents as No. 6 and No. 7, and so on, back through the generations.

Apart from No. 1, who can be male or female, all even-numbered persons are male, and all odd-numbered persons are female. In this schema, the number of any person’s father is double the person’s number, and a person’s mother is double the person’s number plus one. Using this knowledge of numeration, one can derive some basic information about individuals who are listed without additional research.

This construct displays a person’s genealogy compactly, without the need for a diagram such as a family tree. It is particularly useful in situations where one may be restricted to presenting a genealogy in plain text...”

Using Family Tree Maker, I’ve generated separate ahnentafels for my father (Jeremy Edward Butler) and my mother (Penelope Wells Butler) that go back twelve and eleven generations, respectfully. This creates Butler/Gore and Wells/White pedigrees that illuminate the genealogical record for both me and my siblings. Plus, this essentially shows the genealogical record for my uncles and aunts and their children. I chose to stop at the twelfth and eleventh generations as these were when my earliest ancestors came to North America—in the 1600s.

The data in these ahnentafels were collected principally through ancestry.com (which syncs with Family Tree Maker). Obviously, it is not a complete record of my family’s ancestry—no genealogy could be—and there may be errors in it. I plan to continue correcting and adding to these data and will publish my on-going findings online.
